

Name: _____ Date: _____

Sentence Construction: Say It! Write It! Repeat It!

A proposition is a sentence that states that a subject is connected to a predicate, it affirms or denies the truth of a statement.

This is easy.

These are sentences.

Language is the expression of ideas by means of words.

A word is an expression of an idea.

A phrase is a group of words.

Name: _____ Date: _____

Sentence Construction: Say It! Write It! Repeat It!

A proposition is a sentence that states that a subject is connected to a predicate, it affirms or denies the truth of a statement.

A clause is a phrase that has both a subject and a verb.

A sentence is a clause that expresses a complete or finished thought.

Spoken language is the expression of ideas by the voice.

Name: _____ Date: _____

Sentence Construction: Say It! Write It! Repeat It!

A proposition is a sentence that states that a subject is connected to a predicate, it affirms or denies the truth of a statement.

Written language is the expression of ideas with printed characters, or writing.

Grammar names the job of a word in a sentence.

English grammar names the job of a word in an English sentence.

Name: _____ Date: _____

Sentence Construction: Say It! Write It! Repeat It!

A proposition is a sentence that states that a subject is connected to a predicate, it affirms or denies the truth of a statement.

Is the word a subject, a linking verb, an action verb, or an object?

Is the word a description of another word?

Many nouns are also verbs.

A declarative sentence declares a fact.

Name: _____ Date: _____

Sentence Construction: Say It! Write It! Repeat It!

A proposition is a sentence that states that a subject is connected to a predicate, it affirms or denies the truth of a statement.

An interrogative sentence

interrogates a thought.

An exclamatory sentence exclaims

a thought with emotion or force.

An imperative sentence gives a command.